Why did the turkey cross the Scotch Line Road? To get away from all the Thanksgiving dinners around the county. This flock of 11 turkeys was spotted on Scotch Line Road only last week. With reports that flocks in the Minden area are reaching 50 birds, it should not be long now until there is talk of turkey hunting here.

Police say manhunt related to marijuana bust

by TREVOR WILHELM
Osprey Media Group

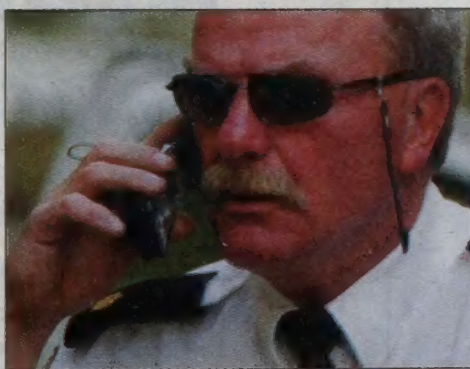

Police nabbed a fugitive and charged him with attempted murder Tuesday after a week-long manhunt sparked by drugs, gunplay and a high-speed car chase.

Provincial police used a helicopter, assault rifles and a camouflaged tactical unit to search the woods last week near Gooderham but it may have been a licence plate check that ultimately led to his arrest.

"They had a vehicle and a licence plate, so I suspect it all came about as a result of that part of that investigation," said Peterborough County OPP Const. Brad Filman.

The search began last Wednesday night after a car chase led to smashed police vehicles and three injured officers on McColls Road, east of Gooderham.

It ended Tuesday when police arrested the man near Barrie, where he lives. The 32-year-old man has been charged with attempted murder and mischief endangering life.

Nurse practitioners will help ease doctor shortage

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

For Haliburton Highlands Health Services, the government's recent announcement to fund the first of four nurse practitioners is very exciting.

With the selection committee already poised to accept applications, the first nurse practitioner in the Highlands signals the continuing growth of the Haliburton Highlands Family Health Team.

Family health teams are a comprehensive, interdisciplinary health care team that typically include physicians, nurse practitioners and nurses working closely with other health professionals such as pharmacists, dietitians, physician specialists, social workers, health educators and mental health workers. Depending on the size and need of the community it serves, the government says that many other health services are sometimes made available.

Minden doctors can also join team

As Beth Archibald, the interim administrative lead of the HHHS, explains, the goal for the Haliburton Highlands family health team is to one day have physiotherapists, occupational therapists, counsellors, nurse practitioners, general practitioners and other specialists working together, ideally under one roof, while also creating partnerships with groups in the community who also provide valuable services.

"The Haliburton family health team is going to offer one-stop shopping for different health services to the people of Haliburton and surrounding areas, and that's what it is all about," said Minister of Health George Smitherman in a press release.

The Haliburton family health team was announced in April of this year, along with 68 other family health teams around the province. The government says that by 2007-2008, there will be 150 family health teams in Ontario providing a comprehensive interdisciplinary health service.

"Family health teams are the next evolution in primary healthcare services and are changing the way health care is being delivered in Haliburton and right across the province," Smitherman said. "They mean a stronger healthcare system now and for generations to come."

Currently, the eight family physicians working in Haliburton have joined the family health team. With the addition of the first of four nurse practitioners, the team will be able to service an additional 800 people in the community.

With the announcement of funding for the first of four nurse practitioners, a timely ceremony also took place in Haliburton to break ground for the new 20,000 square foot family medical centre being built by Dysart et al council next to the Haliburton Hospital. This building will house many of the services provided by the family health team. Future locations will be the hospital in Minden and a clinic in Wilberforce.

HHHS's Beth Archibald says the goal is to have a wide range of health practitioners under one roof. The Family Health Team will start in Haliburton and expand to Minden and Wilberforce.

The builders of the Minden Hospital, in fact, anticipated such a need for space to house future health services when they built the 8,000 square foot Community Health Centre at the Minden Hospital.

That space is currently housing the Minden Medical Clinic and a host of other offices.

Once the Family Health Team matures to its full size, it will operate in both the new centre in Haliburton as well as the Community Health Centre in Minden.

But what does that mean for the Minden medical clinic?

The choice for the physicians, Drs. Bennett Wu and Emile Campioni, is simple. Should they choose to apply to be a part of the Family Health Team, they could likely remain in their current office, pending acceptance of their application.

Currently, Minden Hills council administers the Minden Medical Clinic. While CAO Gerry Morrison indicated council's desire to keep the clinic in the hospital for as long as possible, he also noted that growth in the family health team could result in the Community Health Centre being used for something else.

It is possible that Drs. Wu and Campione could stay where they are indefinitely, but they would need to apply to become part of the family health team. That, however, would mean that the doctors would become salaried under the pay scale of the family health team. Should the Minden Medical Clinic physicians decide not to apply to be a part of the Family Health Team, their office will be moved in the future.

Just how far in the future?

"From the perspective of HHHS," said HHHS CEO Keith Sandsford, "we have not asked them [the doctors] to vacate the premises."

Sandsford did say, however, that if the family health team continues to grow as is now anticipated, the Community Health Centre in the Minden Hospital would be needed for other services.

Earlier, Sandsford said that if the funding were approved, which it has now been, it would still take time to revamp the services offered by the family health team.

So for those patients concerned about the future whereabouts of the doctors, do not panic. The Minden Medical Clinic will continue to be housed in the Community Care Centre for a little while longer.

However, if and when the medical centre is moved, in its stead will be offered a whole variety of services that are specifically designed offer first-class health care service.

A nurse practitioner is a very capable registered health care professional licensed to carry out wellness care and routine check-ups, stable chronic disease management, typical illness care (i.e. ear and respiratory infections, certain joint and muscle injuries), health promotion and education.

A nurse practitioner can independently order diagnostic tests, write prescriptions and diagnose illness within a well-defined scope of practice.

Most importantly, for an area such as Minden that is classified as "under serviced" by provincial health care standards, a nurse practitioner can carry a caseload of patients up to 1,000. One of the benefits of nurse practitioners is that it allows physicians the time to focus on illnesses that require the expertise of extensively trained doctors.

Two-day cancer hike is 'like going to summer camp'

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

"One weekend can change the world."

Depending on the weekend, that is very true. On September 10 and 11, almost 5,000 people, mainly women, raised $16 million for breast cancer research by walking 60 kilometres through the streets of Toronto. Several of the walkers were from Haliburton County, including Lee MacLean from Halls Lake.

This was MacLean's second walk on the Weekend to End Breast Cancer with her two sisters, her husband and a brother-in-law. Known as Leona's Pride, MacLean and her team raised nearly $10,000 for breast cancer research. MacLean alone raised $3,472. Her hair is still pink from her walking days earlier.

"Leona was my paternal grandmother," MacLean says explaining the significance of her walking troupe's name. "She was a survivor."

Thankfully, Leona and her two sisters are fortunate not to have experienced the disease first hand. However, as Lee says, everyone is affected by breast cancer in one way or another. Indeed, in Canada alone, roughly 5,000 women die each year from the disease. Breast cancer accounts for 30 per cent of all cancer cases in Canada.

Because the disease is so prevalent in so many homes and families, MacLean feels it is important to do something meaningful.

"This is something that I can do," says MacLean, "that makes me feel like I'm doing something more than writing a cheque."

Earlier last year, before MacLean was a walking dynamo, one of her sisters suggested the three of them do the walk. They all agreed and plan to continue well into the future. They not only enjoy the walk for the cause, they also enjoy the experience.

"It's like going to summer camp," MacLean says. "You're all there because you have been affected by breast cancer."

A summer camp? Perhaps MacLean meant a fun kind of boot camp?

MacLean starts training for the September walk in January. With another Haliburton County walking group, Nipples North, who raised just over $13,000 this year, MacLean and the others follow the event training guide and slowly build themselves up to be able to manage 30 kilometres a day.

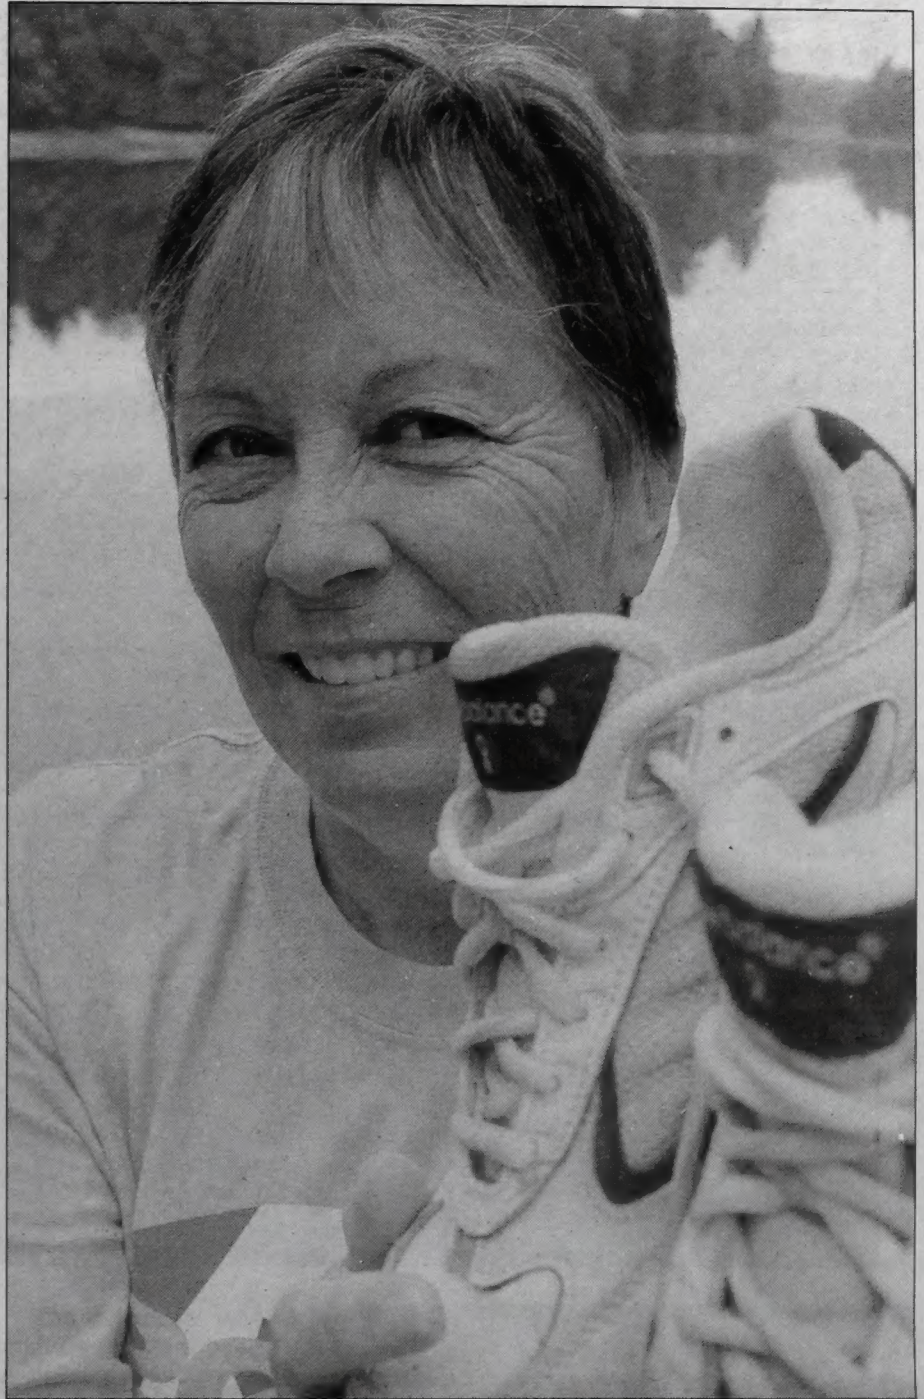

Between pit-stops, water gulps and bathroom breaks, MacLean was amazed at the support from the various Toronto neighbourhoods through which the route passed.

"I can't tell you enough about the people in Toronto," she says. "We would walk through neighbourhoods that would, literally, have pink ribbons everywhere."

Cookies, tea, coffee, water and bathrooms were also generously donated by private residents throughout the city. A true sign of support, according to Lee.

The record-setting $16 million raised by the walk-a-thon will benefit Princess Margaret Hospital, one of the leading institutes for breast cancer research. The charity proceeds not only fund research, but also education about the disease as well as services and care for its victims.

MacLean and her team have already

Helping the community is kids' play for Rotarians

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

The Rotary Club of Minden has donated $4,000 to the After School Program at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. The money was officially announced on the eve of the program's first day of the year.

With enrollment numbers up from last year, the program is fast becoming a huge success.

"The parents from last year's program only had good things to say," says co-ordinator Cheryl Smith.

The program's benefits are many. Not only does it promote and encourage physical activity among children but it also teaches fair play and fun.

"What we promote is teamwork and co-operation," Smith says. "This is supposed to be a fun time for the kids."

The After School Program is a series of sports programs throughout the school year. This month it's soccer, November is hockey and December is basketball. It is offered every Wednesday to those children who are pre-registered.

Although sport is the activity, competitiveness is not the focus.

"We sometimes change the rules," says Smith. "We just have fun."

With the $4,000 from the Rotary Club of Minden, the largest donation from the Rotary Club coffers this year, Smith will be able to continue organizing fun activities for the kids at certain times of the year.

Minden Rotarians Ed Pergolas, Jeanne Anthon, John Kerr, Jim Wilson, Joanne Penfold, Bill Roszell, Mike Jones and Bill Obee presented a cheque of $4,000 to Archie Stouffer Elementary School Principal Rick Thorne and Barb Fraser of Family Services. The money is for Family Services' after school programs at the school.

She is planning bowling nights and tobogganing trips during the Christmas and March breaks, all provided to the students for free.

For Smith, the fact that the program is offered for free is very important. Some children would not be able to participate if it cost money, she said.

The After School Program is offered in conjunction with Archie Stouffer Elementary School and the Health Unit.

The Rotary Club has helped financially, while Family Services is also helping to administer the program.

Rotary Club President Bill Obee believes that the program's affiliation with the school adds to its success among children and parents.

The Rotary Club is pleased to help. As Obee said, the program needed funding to make it work and the Rotary Club had the funds available.

The program started last Wednesday.

In case you were feeling envious, the parents of registered children are also allowed to come out and play, in fact Smith encourages it.

"The parents love it," she says.

Registration forms have been sent home with the students and they are also available at the office of Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Information will be available in the school's newsletter.

After teaching a group of young people the basics of how to use a camera, at left, Minden photographer Robert Hood then helped them discover what makes a good picture at the first of two photography workshops at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. More workshops at the gallery are available.

Shoot-out at the O.K. Gallery

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

Last weekend, there was lots of shooting going on at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. When the dust settles this Saturday, the gallery and the children will see just what kind of 'damage' they have caused.

Last Saturday, the children learned about composition, contrast, lighting and portrait-taking. With the basics covered, and their disposal cameras in hand, the children were to take 12 specific photographs this past week.

The disposal cameras, containing the 12 assigned pictures, were to be dropped off at the office of Archie Stouffer during the week, where they would be picked up and developed by Photo Solutions.

This coming Saturday, the budding photographers will be presented with the results of their homework. Hood will offer a professional critique of each work. Parents are encouraged to attend Saturday's session with their children. Parents, too, can learn a lot about the art of taking photographs.

The Agnes Jamieson Gallery is offering many other workshops for children in the coming weeks. For more information, contact the gallery at 286-3763.

Police fire shots at fleeing truck: witness

bers were harvesting marijuana from deep in the bush near Gooderham.

It started after police surprised some men in a field while investigating a marijuana growing operation off Highway 507 near the Gooderham dump.

The fugitive escaped and ditched his truck several kilometres away on a wooded trail off Milburn Lane near Irondale.

Police closed McColls Road Thursday and officers blocked access to the spot where they found the pickup.

A woman who witnessed Wednesday's car chase said she saw three police vehicles try to stop the fugitive by repeatedly ramming his truck before one officer fired several shots at him as he sped away.

"This is the part that I don't like," said the witness, who didn't want her name used. "The man in the smaller car leapt out and fired. Quite a few shots. My son said he thought he heard nine. But I couldn't be sure."

Darren Lum/TIMES

But the men looking for the fugitive were armed with handguns and assault rifles.

Police set up a large command post Thursday in Bill Powell's yard on Millburn Lane, a few hundred feet from where they found the abandoned pickup.

A helicopter, a trailer, trucks, ATVs and dozens of people, including tactical response officers with camouflage clothing and face paint, were all there late into the night.

Steinke wouldn't tell the public any more about the investigation, except that it's not a typical drug bust.

"This investigation is a little more complex," he said.

The woman who saw the gunplay said an officer told her police widened their search after they saw marijuana fields from the helicopter they hadn't known about while looking for the fugitive.

She said there was also more to the car chase than police reported to the public.

"The white truck with the suspect was first," she said. "Behind him was a cruiser, behind that was a black half ton unmarked, behind that was a smaller black unmarked car. The cruiser was trying to stop him, so they rammed him at the back, which knocked him slightly to the side."

That didn't stop the truck, she said, so the driver of the larger black half ton took a try.

"The half ton gave him a pretty good whack."

She said that hit spun the pickup around so it was facing back toward the way it had just come.

"Then he just stepped on the gas," she said. "The smaller car banged into him hoping to stop him. He was much smaller and just bounced off."

That was when one officer jumped out of the car and started shooting, she said.

Dressed in camouflage, members of the OPP's tactical unit converged at Bill Powell's house on Millburn Lane to begin their search for a man who had evaded police earlier. He was later found and charged at his home near Barrie.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Family Health Teams are good for what ails us

GIVEN THE AMOUNT OF MONEY that the province already spends on healthcare, spending more money is not necessarily the way to solve the stresses that are on the system. Spending money more wisely is probably a better option.

The new Family Health Team that has been designated for Haliburton County is the Ministry of Health's way of trying to better allocate its resources. Instead of all decisions coming from Queen's Park, it wants local communities to be more involved with making decisions about how those monies are spent. After all, communities are in a better position to respond to their own unique needs. With our high population of senior citizens, Haliburton County's priorities are a lot different than downtown Toronto's.

Nurse practitioners are relative newcomers to the healthcare scene. As of yet, they haven't made an appearance in Haliburton County but that's about to change. Haliburton Highlands Health Services has just received funding to hire the first of four nurse practitioners who have been approved for the county. There is optimism that someone will soon be found to help relieve the burden from doctors in Haliburton. With the ability to be able to provide a wide range of services, including in some cases writing prescriptions and making referrals, nurse practitioners can address some of the less complex health issues of patients. This will free up doctors' time so they can best put their own expertise to work.

In Minden, the Family Health Team will be setting up shop in a space already created for such an initiative. (When the Minden HHHS site was upgraded, the plan at the time was for a community health centre. Family Health Teams are a new version of that.) Here, the team will be able to decide how best to focus on the needs of the Minden area. It will take some time for all of the resources to be in place, especially since this is all so new for the players involved. But there is much hope that once the team is fully operational, Minden's residents will receive improved healthcare. And with a team in place, Minden is also better placed to be able to attract more doctors to this area. A doctor who knows a support team is in place will be far more willing to move to a rural area.

Meanwhile, the province is also to be congratulated for its initiatives to keep people from getting sick in the first place. Enhanced funding for the health unit and Health for Life is being targeted to finding ways to make people healthy. By encouraging people to get more exercise and follow a better diet, the programs go a long way in reducing the stresses we will place on our doctors and hospitals. In this way, people have to take some of the responsibility for their own health. We can't simply assume that if we get sick, someone will take care of us. We've got to do our part in trying not to get sick in the first place. Not everyone has to turn into a jogger or vegetarian, but by trying to get moderate exercise at least three times a week and staying away from those French fries, we can help the system help us.

Muddy river an eyesore

To The Editor:

Today is Thanksgiving Sunday, October 9. The time is ten o'clock in the morning. The sun is shining brightly over our colourful Haliburton Highlands. We are planning a family boat ride on Gull River to Gull Lake.

A small voice shouts up from the riverbank, "Auntie Sonya, the water has shrunk. Your boat is sitting on the ground!" So much for our boat trip!

A big asset to our charming town of Minden is the picturesque Gull River flowing through it. We, the Minden people, should be proud and protective of this river. We should CARE. With the water so low the river is NOT picturesque. With all the technology we have in Canada today why can't the water stay at normal river level?

Gord Folk, thank you for your letter to the Minden Times. The Proctors have joined your cause.

We are fed up looking at MUD instead of water day after day.

The Community Rail Trail Symposium that was planned for October 16 has had to be cancelled. This is because of the death of my mother.

However, it is hoped that the four speakers will be able to present their material individually in a series of smaller events over the upcoming months.

Apologies are extended to anyone who was involved in planning, who I have not been able to contact personally about the cancellation.

IN OTHER WORDS

Columns and Letters to the Editor

There's nothing like a dog

WRITING FOR A LIVING can be a lonely profession. You sit alone; you stare at a computer screen alone; you brood alone when the words don't come out right.

All I can say is thank goodness for my dog.

As I sit here and write these words, my pup is fast asleep at my feet, patiently waiting for me to finish whatever the heck she thinks I'm doing. If you're not a dog owner, you can't imagine what a comforting feeling this is.

In a sense, the dog is physically demonstrating that you're worth the wait. It's telling you in no uncertain terms that there's nothing in the world it would rather do than hang out with you. While other people might think you're boring, selfish, or any of the other faults that we humans routinely carry, your dog only sees the good in you.

Gene Hill, the famous outdoors scribe, once wrote, "Whoever said that money can't buy you love, has never bought a puppy."

Truer words have never been spoken. This, in part, is why my colleague, Neil Campbell, and I spend so much time writing about our dogs.

You see, to a good dog, you are the centre of the universe.

My dog and I have bonded more than ever since the opening of the bird-hunting season. Whenever we're out there, we're a team; something we both value. She's proud to flush and retrieve birds for me. And, at the end of a hunt, though exhausted, wet, and covered in burrs, she walks by my side, tail wagging a mile a minute.

When I stop to pet her, she snuggles into me, returning the affection. The price of all this is a warm place to sleep, a little love, and some kibble.

Everyone knows that there is nothing more loyal than a dog. Nor is there another creature more of a product of its environment.

In many aspects they're a reflection of the owner. Treat them with love, patience, and dignity and you'll get the same back tenfold. Abuse them and you've thrown away an opportunity for happiness, both yours and the dogs. I guess what I'm saying is, a dog is what you make of it. And, it's easy to make a good dog.

My dog, now 19 months, is maturing day by day.

Sometimes it's hard to believe that the same animal that retrieved three geese for me the other day is also the pup that used to carry around my dirty socks.

Like most dog owners, I happen to think I have the best dog in the world. Then again, I thought that about my last dog, too. And I'm reasonably certain that I'll think the same thing about my next one.

Oh sure as a pup, she chewed up a pillow, ate a kid's toy or two, devoured several fridge magnets, and even had the odd accident on the floor, but all these things have been forgiven and forgotten. That's because dogs are like fine wines; they get better with age.

Sure there's fun and cuteness in a puppy, but there's also a soul-deep wisdom in the eyes of a mature dog. And while a pup can be wild, headstrong, and selfish, an old dog, if treated right, just aims to please. So in almost every dog, the best is yet to come.

What I love most though is no matter how dignified and mature a dog gets, every now and then, there'll be a mischievous glint in its eyes. And if you're lucky, no matter how old, they'll be enough just pup left in them to carry around a dirty sock.

Trust me, there's nothing like it.

A tale of two solitudes

OUR NEW governor-general is wrong; we still live in two solitudes in this country of ours, but the solitudes are urban and rural.

Pictures of life for the city mouse and the country mouse, drawn from The Globe and Mail's ROB Magazine, and from living in Haliburton:

The Brown Dog Jiggs, flushed with success, comes running hard, tongue lolling, tail wagging, to boast of his success in the hunt.

He is foaming at the mouth, dog slobber hanging from his muzzle and descending in stalactites from the roof of his mouth. Except this time the slobber is crimson with blood, the white ruff on his neck dotted with red, a shallow scratch creasing his forehead.

Jiggs is wriggling in self-adoration as I wedge his chest between my knees and wipe away drool bare-handed, just checking to make sure none of the blood came from him.

It turns out that all the blood belonged to the groundhog or young coon or whatever scratched his forehead as it fought in vain for its life.

The kindly dog would like to tell me, even show, what he has killed but I don't speak canine. In a few minutes, he will find a pond and wade in chest-high for a drink and all the blood will wash away.

It is almost too much excitement for the two of us. The Big Smoke seems a million miles away.

All of the blood at a Bay Street bar courses through the veins of whipper-snappers from the world of finance who work hard and play hard. This bar is the place to be this week.

Testosterone flows like water and so does the booze — $11 for a drink and $220 for a bottle that lets your gang sit in a private booth, protected against who knows what by a wall of bouncers.

It is a scene from all of our youths except for the money and the women attracted by the smell of that money. It is nothing at all like the taproom at the Sapsucker Arms.

A woman who evidently forgot to put a dress on over her slip shakes hands with a hipster; in the booths, women dance on table tops.

This is no singles bar or strip club; the brokers and bankers are more interested in drinking than in romance. It is just another Thursday night. The band plays on until 3 a.m.; deals will be made the next morning by young men still woozy from the night before.

The evening's refreshments, typically, will cost $500 or so the magazine reports. In Haliburton, a man who spent $500 on a night of drinking would not be held in high regard.

The magazine does not stipulate whether suspenders still are part of a hipster's uniform. Out on Sapsucker Ridge, they are de rigueur, but they are a tool.

If you waist exceeds your hips and your pockets are weighted down with tape measures and nails and jackknives and keys and compasses and all of the flotsam needed for a day in the bush, suspenders are not a fashion statement. They keep your pants from falling down.

Though the long-underwear drawer has been opened and inventory taken, no withdrawals have been made, but there are mornings when the wind blows up your pant-legs and you begin to think about it.

What the well-dressed old woodcutter has been wearing when he and The Brown Dog Jiggs head out to turn red maples into fuel for the winter of 2007-2008:

- Work socks over mismatched street socks that lost their partners at the laundry. The mismatches are our secret.
- A pair of work boots so well broken-in that the metal toecaps show through the leather.
- Old workpants with a pair of Fruit of the Looms peaking through a tear in the

Fast response to replacing damaged signs is appreciated

To the Editor:

These days while we always seem to be reading about inefficiencies and deficiencies in federal, provincial, regional and local governing bodies, I felt it necessary to write positively about two individuals who represent Minden Hills.

As a resident of Mountain Lake, we endured the road work done this summer on Highway 35 and noticed after its completion that our 911 road sign for Bramble Lane had disappeared.

The sign post was also damaged, highly likely due to the results of grading, levelling the side of the road, etc.

Councillor Cheryl Murdoch very quickly provided me with the person to contact to remedy the situation.

MORE LETTERS

After contacting Kevin Mills, Minden Hills road superintendent, the sign post and street sign were in place within a week of my call.

This excellent service was very much appreciated and we should be thankful that both Cheryl and Kevin indeed work for us and with us here in Minden Hills.

I just want them to know that their efforts are appreciated.

A busy start to MPP's life

THIS WEEK marks the midpoint of my first term as your MPP for Haliburton-Victoria-Brock. This article is a chance to look back and look forward. I have learned a great deal since October 2, 2003, working on issues that affect the residents, businesses and communities in our riding as well as the province.

Originally I was asked to serve as the Ontario PC Party Critic for training, colleges and universities and in August I was asked by our new leader John Tory to now serve as the Environment Critic. I also serve on the Standing Committee on Government Agencies.

Over the past two years my staff and I have worked hard to help thousands of people throughout the riding resolve problems they are having with provincial issues. Some of the most common are: obtaining birth certificates, driver's licences, dealing with the agricultural crisis, and a variety of provincial programs and grants.

I continue to work with municipalities, businesses, community groups and the education sector on our future plans for economic development and growth, infrastructure, doctor recruitment and many other initiatives to make our communities prosper.

Last summer, the McGuinty government closed the Leslie M. Frost Centre with no warning, and I fully supported and participated with the local effort to Save the Frost Centre. The petition that we circulated ended up with more than 10,000 signatures, and this, combined with local and province-wide pressure, forced the government to establish a working committee to look at future options for the site. I do not know what the government had originally planned to do with the Frost Centre site after closing it, but the rapid and overwhelming response that took place forced the government to look for other alternatives.

During the most recent session at Queen's Park, I introduced a bill that would lead to the development of an apprenticeship for fuel technicians. This issue was brought to my attention by a local businessman who was having problems attracting and training staff. In Ontario alone, 4,000 employers hire a variety of tradespeople to heat, vent, cool, freeze and conduct and make sure that air does not escape from our homes and businesses.

My private member's bill was passed during the most recent legislative session, and the process of developing a fuel technician apprenticeship is underway. Less than three percent of private members bills are passed into law, so I am very pleased by the success of this bill. I am hopeful that this will help more young people stay in their own communities to work and raise their families.

It is always a pleasure for me as your MPP to attend local events and meet with my constituents. I try to attend and participate in as many of these events and celebrations as possible. Getting out and visiting the many communities in Haliburton-Victoria-Brock gives me a chance to hear first hand, about the issues that are affecting you.

Each year, I hold New Year's Levees in both the north and south parts of the riding to meet with constituents to celebrate the holiday season, and to collect donations for local food banks.

This past spring I held my first seniors seminars along with MP Barry Devolin. I plan to continue these events, and invite you to attend.

Since October 2, 2003 I have worked hard to earn the trust you showed in me that day. It is important for me to hear the concerns that affect you. My commitment to you is to continue to work hard to assist you and our communities.

I would encourage you to contact my constituency office at 1-800-424-2490 or 705-324-6654. You can also e-mail me at laurie\_scott@ontla.ola.org.

When you see me in your community, please approach me with your concerns and comments. I welcome the opportunity to speak with you.

Christmas food drive begins

The Minden Christmas Basket 2005 program is operating again this year to assist those families less fortunate in our community.

Over the past years, it has helped many families and brightened Christmas for many children because of this caring, generous community.

The program provides food baskets for families and gifts for the children of numerous families in our area.

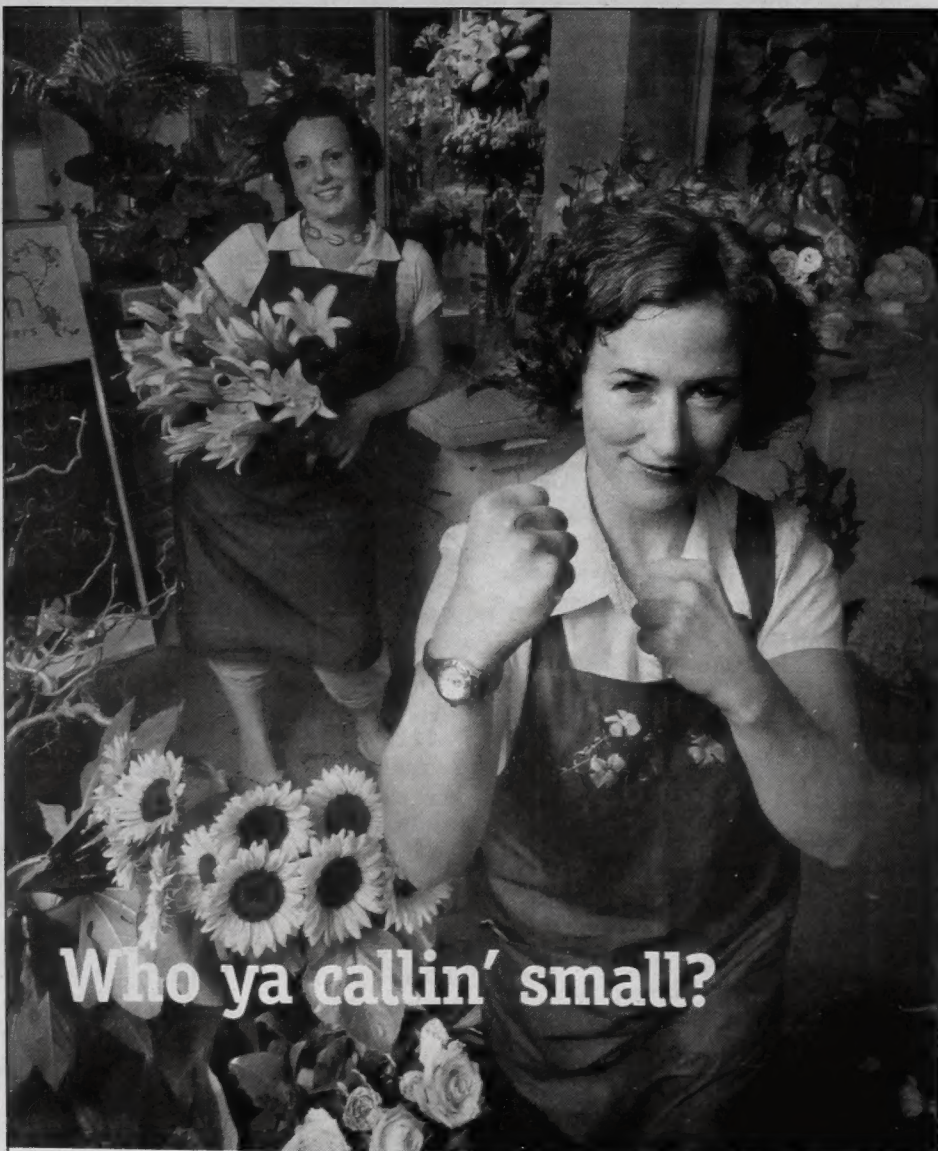

The community is thanked for its and it's hoped the sharing will continue for Christmas 2005. Gifts and non-perishable food items can be delivered to the Minden Community Centre on December 21 and 22.

Financial contributions are welcome as well. The Minden Food Bank is a registered Charitable organization. If a receipt is required please let them know your complete name and address. Please make cheques payable to the Minden Food Bank. You can mail them to Box 893, Minden, K0M 2K0.

Volunteers are needed, and welcome at the Minden Community Centre between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Dec. 21, 22 and 23, to help pack the boxes, prepare the gifts and disperse the baskets.

All food and gifts will be distributed on December 23, between 1 and 3 p.m.

For more information call Ron and Toos Reid at 489-2431 or Karen Guyatt at 489-1232.

Lost your health card? Help is on its way

Do you need a new Ontario Health Card?

The Ontario Ministry of Health & Long-Term care will be at the government information centre on Hwy. 35 in Minden on November 3 and December 1.

Assistance is by appointment only. The new booking number is 1-888-376-5197.

1. The Ministry of Health is issuing photo Health cards only to

- people whose Health Card has been lost, stolen or damaged
- people reporting a name change or citizenship status change

- new Ontario residents

2. People must register in person. For convenience, the Ministry has set up temporary registration sites. Call your local Ministry of Health office for the locations and hours the sites are open.

3. Before you go make sure you have all the documents you need. You must take at least three original documents. You will need:

- Proof of Canadian Citizenship or immigration status (eg. Can. Birth Cert./Citizenship/Immigration document).

- Proof that you live in Ontario (ie. a current document with your name & current home address, eg. valid Ont. drivers licence/utility bill/school report card- the document must show a street address or lot and concession and township.)

- Proof of signature (ie. a document with your name & signature, eg. SIN card / credit card)

- Proof of name change, if applicable (eg. Marriage Cert./Name change cert).

You must have all the documents you need before you register. You cannot use the same document twice. To get a detailed list of acceptable documents, call the Automated Information System at 1-800-664-8988 or call 1-800-268-1154.

4. Children 15 1/2 or younger, who need replacement cards, do not have to attend in person.

A parent should take an original document to show the child's Canadian citizenship or immigration status plus their own health card and residency and signature documents.

Students gives Dawson their love as he prepares for his transplant

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

For young Dawson Hamilton, who suffers from leukemia, life has not been easy. Fortunately, it is filled with warmth and kindness from his peers at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Last week they wished him good luck with his treatments scheduled for next month in Toronto.

Hamilton's schoolmates, the whole school in fact, created a banner wishing him "Good Luck."

Jenn Whiteway, who put the presentation together, says that the banner not only shows how much Hamilton's friends and peers care about him, it will also be good reading material in the hospital.

The banner measures roughly six feet by three feet and is covered in writing, big and small, from many of Archie Stouffer's 450-plus students. The foyer of the school was filled with students on Friday of last week to the school raised more than $8,000 for the Foundation.

The school also donated their Terry Fox Run proceeds to the Terry Fox Foundation in Hamilton's name. In total,

While Dawson's chemotherapy is not scheduled to start until next month, he must first undergo a bone marrow transplant, for which a donor with a perfect match has been found.

Kinmount artists open their doors

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

The Kinmount Thanksgiving weekend studio tour was a great success.

"I think we really blend all three tours together," said organizer Bruce Fleury, referring to the Kinmount Studio Tour, the Haliburton County Tour and the Victoria County Tour, all three of which took place over Thanksgiving weekend.

All art tours in the Haliburton and Minden area are always well received. The Kinmount Studio Tour, in its 11th year this year, saw hundreds of people passing through local artisan studios and workshops with many creative artwork and gifts for sale.

Brenda Mulholland, who was showcasing her work in the Kinmount Railway Station, had visitors from as far away as Yellowknife and even Japan.

With 10 very talented artists on the tour, many visitors stopped at each studio to absorb and experience the gifted artisans of the area.

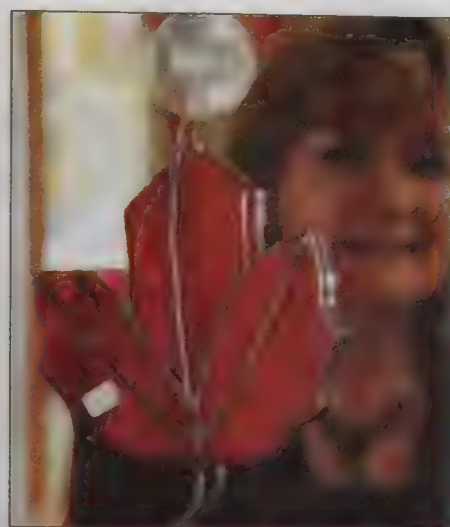

Noreen Dunphy and Laura Anderson, cottagers from nearby Coboconk, enjoy the various tours every year.

New to the tour this year are Holly Lougheed and Bernie Nicholson of Shots and Pots Studio. The photography and pottery duo said that their turnout was not as high as they would have liked on the Saturday. Lougheed did, however, say that with each year on the tour, they hope awareness about their studio will increase.

For more information about artists in the Kinmount area, visit www.kinmount-artisans.ca.

The Red Hawks scrumhalf Natasha McGann gets the ball out of the scrum and sends a pass to a back during the final few minutes of the game against Crestwood. HHSS lost a close one, 12 - 5. McGann scored the single try early in the game.

The HHSS senior girls rugby team's hopes for their first win of the season were dashed by a superior Mustangs side on Thursday, Oct. 6.

Effort aside, the Red Hawks couldn't keep pace and were pushed back in the scrums as the game progressed. HHSS, to its credit, never gave in and kept the game close through tireless efforts in lineouts and mauls.

Despite the inequities the winless home-side took an early lead in the opening minutes, taking advantage of a series of penalties.

Scrum-half Natasha McGann's five-point score came from a rolling maul, but the conversion attempt missed for a 5 - 0 lead.

Crestwood responded immediately. They followed up the Red Hawks' first strike with a quick score from a sequence of lone runs by the Mustangs backs who broke through for space. Their conversion attempt also missed. The game was tied, 5 - 5.

The half ended tied, 5 - 5.

The Mustangs captured the win with a score early on in the second half. Through a series of kicks by a lone Crestwood back, who kept her team onside with her pace, the team scored and completed the conversion for the eventual 12 - 5 final.

The Red Hawks couldn't fend off the quick attacks by the fast Mustangs backs and stronger Crestwood forwards who controlled the majority of the scrums, said the coaching staff.

Part of the strength issue is the shortage of players. With 13 seniors and two juniors the team does not have a bench and it proves to be a disadvantage in the late stages of the game.

Junior call up Emma Cox said, "The game is a little bit faster. The players are faster and harder to take down."

The Mustangs entered play in second place (4 - 0) to TASS.

Coach Christie Chester was satisfied with the effort, and saw improvements that she expects to build upon.

"We're working on rucks. They were better," Chester said. "Tackling ... it was a lot lower than in the past." She adds, "[The forwards] are presenting the ball to their backs."

The coaching staff includes Peter Overington and Michael Bryant.

Katie Kellestine used her pace for the team's single win against the St. Peter Saints on Monday, Oct. 3.

HHSS back Kellestine scored the winning try with Kyla Bryant adding the extra two points on the conversion.

The juniors are 1 - 1 - 3.

The Big Four

Find out more about moose, deer, elk and bear at workshop

Landowners, naturalists and outdoor enthusiasts should take note of an upcoming workshop called Wildlife in Your Woodlot: The Big Four.

Presented by the Haliburton Highlands Stewardship Council in partnership with the Ministry of Natural Resources, the workshop provides an ideal opportunity for woodlot owners to learn more about four major wildlife species that may inhabit your woodlot.

The session will explore the habitat requirements, populations, lifecycles and human interactions with moose, elk, deer and black bears.

Various presentations and demonstrations by well known experts on each of the four species will enhance your understanding of these magnificent animals.

The workshop is at Kinark Outdoor Centre, near Carnarvon, on October 28.

Registration is $20. Pre-register by phone, pay on arrival

The workshop is from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m

Fee includes coffee break and lunch

To pre-register or for more information, please call Nicole Tuyten at (705) 286-5206 or e-mail

Encouraging today's youth

Nominations are now being accepted for the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards

The strength of our community lies in solid citizens. Today's youth are tomorrow's leaders. If you know a young person, aged 6 to 17, who is involved in worthwhile community service; a special person who is contributing while living with a limitation; a youth who has performed an act of heroism; or a 'good kid' who shows a commitment to making life better for others, doing more than is normally expected of someone their age – help us recognize their contribution – nominate them today!

Nominations will be accepted until November 30.

Contact this newspaper or the Ontario Community Newspapers Association at www.ocna.org or 905.639.8720.

Bullet proof

Get the lowdown on the classic deer rounds of Central Ontario

EVERY HUNTER has a favourite round for deer. Make no mistake about it; hunters are rarely convinced that their cartridge isn't the best. And while particular cartridges are best suited for a particular terrain, there is no debate about the four most popular cartridges used to hunt deer in Central Ontario: 30-30, 30-06, .308 and the .303 British.

The 30-30 Winchester

When the 30-30 was first introduced to the public as a sporting round in 1895, it was hailed as one of the most powerful, accurate and flat shooting cartridges.

tridges around. Chambered often, if not exclusively in lever-action rifles, the 30-30 became synonymous with a very light, compact gun with fast follow up shots – perfect for a saddle or the bush.

Today, the popularity of the 30-30 in a lever-action rifle continues. The cartridge itself is very limited. Bullet offerings are few, usually only offered in either 150 or 170-grain flat-nosed bullets and compared to other cartridges, its trajectory is very poor. The 30-30 is also not a very powerful round, capable of the 1000 foot pounds of energy recommended to kill deer up to only 150-200 yards.

That said, the 30-30 is second to none in the prevalent thick bush in Central Ontario. Chambered in a lever-action, the 30-30 is a very short gun, usually measuring no longer than 38 inches overall. It is therefore very light, making it an ideal traveler for hunters walking the bush all day. Also, a 30-30 in a lever-action gun holds up to seven rounds with the lever-tary as well as other Commonwealth countries. In Canada, the Enfield's history begins in 1916, when it replaced the utterly useless Ross Rifle for Canadian troops in Europe.

As servicemen and women returned home from the battlefields of Europe after both world wars, many brought home with them their service Enfield rifles that had performed so well in warfare. Quickly, the 303 British became a staple in many homes as the hunting rifle. Not just by veterans, cheap military surplus Enfields could be bought practically everywhere.

The 303 British chambered in the Lee-Enfield is a very accurate round, in part due to the tick barrel needed for reliability in war. And, while not as powerful as the 30-06 or the 308, the 303 is capable of killing deer up to 300 yards in the hands of an experienced shooter with routine target practice.

The Lee-Enfield spring loaded bolt action has the fastest bolt throw ever. In the hands of a hunter used to the action, the Lee-Enfield provides very fast follow-up shots.

The 303/Enfield combination is not without drawbacks. As with the 30-30, bullet weight and style is limited in the 303 British round, offered mainly in a 180-grain. Another drawback is that the Lee-Enfield is a very heavy gun, weighing in over 8 and one half pounds when mounted with a scope.

Some hunters may find a lighter gun more useful.

Please see page 15

From left to right, the 30-06 Springfield, the 303 British, the 308 Winchester and the 30-30 Winchester (next to a common AA battery) are all very popular deer rounds in Central Ontario. Which one do you use?

The .308 Winchester

Used as the standard military round of NATO since its introduction in the 1950s, the 308 (also known as the 7.62 NATO) is a very popular round exhibiting all that is good about modern rifles cartridges.

Designed as a better round for automatic machine gun fire, the 308 is a comparatively short round which loaded better and jammed less than the long 30-06 casing. The short, stocky nature of the 308 cartridge allows for a very efficient burn of the gunpowder resulting in a very powerful round of ammunition (just slightly less than the 30-06) with far less powder.

Another advantage of the 308's short, stocky nature is that it is often chambered in light guns, perfect for carrying through the bush all day without the wear and discomfort of heavier firearms. Also, when chambered in a bolt-action rifle, the short bolt pull of the 308 provides very quick chambering of the next round for quick follow-up shots.

Like the bigger, slightly more powerful 30-06, the 308 is offered in a plethora of bullet weights and styles creating the potential for a wide range of hunting applications.

The 30-06 Springfield

Used as the standard US military round since its introduction in 1906 (hence the name, 30 for the caliber and 06 for the year it was accepted by the US military), the 30-06 is the powerhouse of the classic Central Ontario deer rounds.

The recoil of the 30-06 is substantial, especially when chambered in guns weighing less than seven pounds. With that recoil, however, the 30-06 (in most bullet varieties) carries the required 1000 foot-pounds of energy to kill a deer at 500 yards. Also, because of the 30-06's inherent flat shooting performance, those long shots are made even easier. Shots of that nature, however, should only be taken by experienced shooters who have ample range practice at such distances.

Another advantage of the 30-06, as with the 308 Winchester, is that rounds are available in a wide variety of bullet weights, allowing for a wide range of hunting applications.

Hunters who watch hydro lines, clear cuts and farm fields would do well to use a 30-06. It is also a fine moose gun out to 250 yards.

Give a hide, get a hat

Here's how to look after a green hide

WHENEVER A HUNTER shoots a moose or deer, the hides can be donated to Hats for Hides. The hides are distributed to various native communities. In exchange, the hunter receives a blaze orange hat.

Care for green hides

Quick and careful preparation of green hides dropped off by hunters is crucial to making everyone's conservation efforts pay off. There are three usual methods to care for green hides and preserve them until they get tanned.

1. Hides should be inspected for hair slippage, rotting or maggots, when the hunter brings them in. (if hair pulls out fairly easily from the hide, slippage has occurred.) if any of these occur, the hides are not acceptable or suitable for tanning.

2. Salting is the most common method used to preserve hides headed for "factory of chemical tanning processes. All meat and fat must be removed from the hide by scraping or cutting with great care taken not to damage the hide. Fine Salt works best as it rubs right into any remaining fibre on the inside of the hide whereas coarse-grain salt does not hold and tends to run off. The entire hide must be salted right to the edges and while the amount of salt depends on the size of the hide, experts say to salt about 1/4 inch deep. Salted hides should be laid flat out, hair side down for a few days if they are to be folded into quarters or halves, till pick up.

3. Freezing hides is also a good method for preserving hides for tanning and frozen hides can be either chemically or "home" or smoke tanned. Salted hides, however cannot be smoke tanned the traditional way. As in salting, the hides must be scraped clean of all meat and fat before being folded into a large garbage bag which is then tied and placed in the freezer. To dry hides, the hide is nailed or tied along the outside edges only to a frame or sheet of plywood after it has been scraped clean of all meat and fat.

Do not make cuts or nicks in the hide when skinning. Do not put the hide in plastic. Even when salted, the hide will decay if no air reaches it. Only freeze hides that will be home tanned. Spoiled hides will not be accepted.

For more information, talk to a depot operator about the treatment of hides.

More details about the program, how to prepare hides and where they can be dropped off can be found at www.hatsforhides.com. Or call 1-888-873-3319 to find out where the nearest hides' depot is.

How to take care of your firearm

Many hunters are not sure if the work they want done should be done by a gunsmith or by themselves

Story by Mike Grinnell

EVERY YEAR FIREARMS come into my shop for repair or maintenance and perhaps addition of new sights, sling swivels, or stock pads or simply sighting-in. Many hunters and shooters are often not sure whether or not the work they want done should be done by a gunsmith or by themselves. I will explain what work should be done by an experienced gunsmith, what work can perhaps be done by the firearm owner and what additional services are available from the gunsmith.

I will also give some tips on preventive maintenance that will help keep the firearm working well and should avoid unnecessary trips to the gunsmith.

While you can do some work on your gun, there is also work that you should not even consider doing.

You should be able to do the following work:

- Repairs to small scratches on stocks
- Touch-up metal bluing on very small blemishes
- General cleaning — with disassembly up to the point as recommended by the manufacturer
- Attaching aftermarket sights and parts if the firearm does not need further work

Sighting-in

It is unwise, impractical, or perhaps unsafe for you to do the following work:

- Detailed disassembly beyond the manufacturers recommendations
- Trigger adjustments
- Internal barrel or chamber cleaning beyond a general swab-out
- Stock repairs or modifications beyond basic cosmetic repairs
- Stock refinishing, especially where checkering is involved
- Sight changing or installations that aren't "clamp-on"
- Drilling or tapping
- Soldering or welding or using epoxies
- Installing sling swivels
- Stock tuning, including barrel bedding
- Barrel shortening, chamber work, or choke work
- Removing dents or burrs in any part of a barrel
- "Smoothing-up" an action
- Making a firearm more accurate

Diagnosis of malfunctions

- Any machine work or fitting of parts
- Magazine work
- Installation of "drop-in" or "no gunsmith required" parts — they aren't usually that way!

Author Mike Grinnell, in his workshop, is the owner of Mike's Gun Repair in Haliburton. Photo submitted.

- Experimenting with reloaded ammunition or loads that are unfamiliar
- Any custom modifications that change the operation or characteristics of the firearm
- Work on somebody else's firearm

(legal, insurance, and liability issues can surface)

Additional Gunsmith Services

There are other reasons you may want to take your gun to a gunsmith or at least contact a gunsmith:

Gunsmiths

- can advise on the types of firearms to buy (particularly on model construction and reliability); accessories; values; ammunition; ballistics; applicability to hunting situations

- are aware of new developments in the field of firearms and ammunition
- can identify old or rare firearms
- can obtain parts not readily available
- have sources of information not readily available to the general public
- have links to other gunsmithing services performed by specialists in the field
- are current on legal issues regarding firearms and can direct you to legal services
- are sources of information about shooting organizations, ranges, and shooting sports and events
- often will repair airguns
- will do or arrange for custom work
- can often do the work when you don't have the time

Preventive Maintenance

Preventive maintenance is work that is done to minimize the occurrence of future problems. As a firearm owner, you should make sure you do the following items and you should have fewer problems in the future:

- clean the barrel and chamber after each use of the gun and before storing after the season
- Use only products made for firearms maintenance
- always protect the muzzle of the barrel from dents
- never over-oil the internal mechanism of the firearm or spray oil into the mechanism in the hope of keeping it working
- always dry the metal of a firearm after exposure to rain or snow and always dry between the metal and any stocks or forearms
- never store a firearm in a gun case or an unvented storage cabinet
- always apply a good stockwax to wood stocks and seal any scratches
- store firearms muzzle down to prevent oil from running into wood areas
- keep screws and bolts tightened and apply a light coat of oil to the threads
- keep scope glass clean and covered.

Safety

- When working on a firearm;
- Always make sure all firearms are completely unloaded and safe
- Have no ammunition in the area of the firearm
- Wear safety glasses
- Work in a clean and uncluttered area
- Work in a well-lit and well-ventilated area
- Have no distractions around you
- Do not be in a hurry
- Do not smoke and do not consume alcohol
- Read and understand manufacturers safety warnings
- Never assume or guess about the firearm.

Hiking for a wish

Walk to Dorset Tower raises nearly $2,000

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

No matter how long or how steep the trails leading from Dorset to the famous tower are, nothing was insurmountable for a group of hikers determined to raise money for the Children's Wish Foundation of Canada.

For the past five years, energetic walkers have scaled the hillside for the worthy cause. This year, the charity walk alone raised more than $600 for the Children's Wish Foundation. Awaiting the hikers at the top of the trek, in the Tower park, was a barbecue with those funds also going to the charity. Robinson's Store in Dorset generously donated the food.

As park goers lined up for burgers, hotdogs and pop, the barbecue raised $300 over the lunch hour.

For the 11th year now, Dorset Postmaster John Clayton and other post offices in Central Ontario have been raising money for the Children's Wish Foundation. To date, they have collectively raised $24,000 for the charity.

"It's a great cause," says Clayton as he catches his breath underneath the Tower. "Everyone hates to see children sick."

Clayton, who raises pledges at the Post Office counter, is especially thankful to all the seasonal residents who donate money even though they are not here during the hike.

"The summer people are very supportive of the cause," says Clayton, who estimates that 60 per cent of his donations come from seasonal residents.

When all the donated funds are calculated, including the walk, the barbecue, the donations from various clubs and organizations and from private individuals, Clayton is hopeful that the total will be near the $2,000 mark.

Last year's fundraising efforts raised $2,500.

County warden promotes dialogue

by BRYN WEESE
Times Staff

The following are brief notes from the October 6 meeting of Algonquin Highlands Council.

Haliburton County Warden Jim McMahon and County CAO Jim Wilson addressed council in the first of what might be many county updates.

At a county retreat, it was decided that the county and the four member municipalities of Haliburton become more comfortable with one another.

Not only did McMahon say how important it was for the members of the councils to know one another, but also, "we all have the same problems. We can learn from each other."

To further promote and foster inter-municipality partnerships, Algonquin Highlands is hosting the first-ever municipal day on October 26 in Stanhope. The entire roster of councillors from each municipality is invited to attend a day of workshops, socializing and food.

Resolutions for support

From time to time, council receives letters from other municipalities, special interest groups or private individuals seeking support in principle.

CAO Lorne Mitchell advised council that it would make staff's life easier if not every plea for support from every municipality, special interest group or individual made it onto council's agenda.

While all correspondence from the other three member municipalities and the county will still be included, other municipality's resolutions, or requests for support in principle from elsewhere in the province will only be included on the agenda at a councillors' behest.

Mitchell believes this will streamline the process somewhat of offering support in principle to those items that make it onto the agenda. It will also make the day easier for councillors, who will no longer be required to brush up on issues that do not affect Algonquin Highlands.

Mileage rates

Due to the recent increase in fuel costs, Mitchell recommended to council that a resolution be passed adjusting the mileage rate from 38 cents a kilometre to a 40 cents.

In relation to other Haliburton County member municipalities, Algonquin Highlands has typically been in the bottom two. Highlands East claims 50 cents a kilometre; Dysart claims 35 cents a kilometre while Minden Hills claims 40 cents a kilometre.

The only voice that expressed concern over the issue of readjusting the mileage rate for councillors and certain staff (who benefit from the mileage compensation) was Deputy-revee Tom Gardner.

His only concern was that the rate could be lowered later in the unlikely event that the price of fuel is lowered and stabilized.

Regardless, the resolution passed unanimously.

There are 33 ways to enjoy nature during Hike Haliburton

Get up close and personal with nature on your choice of 33 guided hikes during this weekend's Hike Haliburton festival.

History, nature, music, art, fantastic viewpoints, and wetlands – you name it and there's a walk or hike you'll like on October 14, 15 and 16.

Last year more than 1,000 people attended, so join other outdoor enthusiasts for a fabulous weekend amidst the rolling beauty of the Haliburton Highlands. This ever-growing festival offers 33 guided hikes and activities designed for all interests, ages and abilities – even for entire families.

This year's hikes include llamas, geocaching, geology, music, old growth forests, photography, bogs and B&Bs. Travel the Ganaraska Forest, ride a horse, visit waterfalls or take a treetop tour.

Offered again this year is a wheelchair accessible trail, and several hikes are back by popular demand such as the hilarious "Scoop on Poop", complete with its very own song!

Themed hikes for all ages and abilities will take place all over the county on private trails systems and Crown Land. Each walk is asking only $2 per person donation (all donations welcome) and all are led by knowledgeable and interesting guides. Best of all, there are no bugs and the leaves will be spectacular.

Friday night features a family BBQ and Night Hike as well as open stage music performances by some of the Highlands' best kept musical secrets.

On Saturday night, Toronto band Coyote Wild will work out the kinks at the Silent Auction and "Blister Ball" Dance.

A full program is available online at www.trailsandtours.com.

Apart from the tail ends of a couple of hurricanes, September was a pleasant month

by PHIL GRAHAM
Special to The Times

September was pleasant, with lots of variety. Lots of sunshine and warm days. We had the tail end of two hurricanes, Katrina and Rita, with the usual rain accompanying them, especially Sept. 25, 27 and 29.

We had first frost on September 24 at this location, although several had frost before and after September 24.

We had at least 20 sunny and warm days.

There was not much show of colours, but they were good by Thanksgiving.

George Corbisier is still going strong, laying down concrete floors in many of the buildings in Minden. He keeps his gear, including this 275 lb. finishing trowel, in his 1978 GM van. Along with this very equipment, Corbisier has installed concrete floors in some of the world's most famous buildings (including the CN Tower, pictured below).

By George!

Is it any wonder that a man as down to earth as George Corbisier has laid cement floors in some of the world's most famous buildings?

A modest man sits in his chair, enjoying the afternoon sunlight shining through the window. And while George Corbisier is not one to brag about his life's accomplishments, he has left his footprint, so to speak, on many of the modern era's masterpieces of architecture.

A young man to look at, Corbisier enjoys keeping his age a secret, although he does admit he is old enough to have fought in the Second World War. He is also quick to point out he hasn't had a cold in more than 70 years.

"I never abused my body," he says. "I never drank and I never smoked."

Corbisier's parents left Belgium for the boom towns of Cape Breton Island following the First World War to fill the void of labourers needed for the coal mines and the growing town. Corbisier, like those in his family before him, took to working in the mines at a young age: At the age of 12, Corbisier left school to work deep below the surface of the earth full-time. He has not gone to school since, nor has he ever stopped working.

"I've had a good life," he says with a smile. "I've worked hard all my life, but I have no complaints."

For a man who spent many years below ground in the black dust of a coal pit, Corbisier looks surprisingly youthful and colourful.

But his life as a coal miner was not meant to last. As the price for coal dropped, and the mines began to close (as all mines inevitably do), Corbisier joined the army as regular infantry with a regiment from Prince Edward Hastings in Nova Scotia.

From 1941 until the end of the war, Corbisier served throughout Europe engaged in active battle for much of his tour. First fighting in Italy and then in Holland at the closing of the war, Corbisier speaks of his wartime experiences matter-of-factly. He briefly describes his regiment's victories as others would a shopping list: Italy, tough fighting, Holland, muddy. He does allow some pride to show, however, on top of his usually modest demeanor.

When Corbisier describes the final days of
see YOU GO page 22

'You go into a building, you're not looking at the ceiling, you're looking at the floor'

the war, his voice becomes quiet, his words short and soft.

"I lost my officer on the last day of the war," he says. "Lieutenant Thompson was his name. He was killed.

"I'd served with him for four years," he says. "He was a good man."

While saddened, Corbisier is most certainly the kind of man not to dwell on the heartache in life.

The stories of his life quickly turn from bad to good when, after the war, Corbisier once again was working full-time, only now, for a construction company as a cement floor specialist.

A curious trade for a man of his background, Corbisier's choice of profession is best expressed in his own words.

"You go into a building, you're not looking at the ceiling, you're looking at the floor," he says with a laugh. "You walk on the floor, too. It's got to be smooth, shiny and flat."

As far as cement floor specialists go, Corbisier is one of the best.

During the 50 years

that he worked in Toronto, he installed cement floors in some of the most famous buildings in Canada, and the world.

In Toronto proper, Corbisier's work can be seen in the Eaton Centre, the Imperial Bank of Commerce, the new City Hall, the Skydome and the CN Tower. He has also worked on almost all the factories around town, including the Toyota plant, the GM plant in Oshawa, the Honda plant and the Ford plant in Oakville.

But don't think Corbisier's fame is limited to the GTA. Throughout his career, he often travelled around the globe installing the best concrete floors in some of the world's most famous buildings.

Notably, he has built floors for major airports in Singapore, Venezuela, the Dominican Republic and Saudi Arabia. Even since his "so called" retirement in 1988, he has continued to receive calls for projects around the world. In 1994, he was asked to go to Tokyo to install the concrete base of a massive new skating arena.

Arenas are another one of Corbisier's specialties. Between factories, commercial buildings and arenas, Corbisier has worked in nearly every town in Ontario. He has worked from the far north in Sioux Lookout to the south in Windsor, and all points in between.

Quite a compliment, then, that he decided to stay in Minden.

"I came up here to retire," he says. "But I couldn't retire. I've been working full-time since I was twelve."

Corbisier was especially drawn to Minden because it reminded him of home.

"I like this place, it keeps me going," he says as he scans the inside of his house near Minden on Cty. Rd 121. "To me, this place is just like my old home in Cape Breton Island."

Corbisier continues to install concrete floors. In the Minden area, he has worked his magic on the floors of Archie Stouffer Elementary School, Home Hardware, the plaza next to Home Hardware and Ridgewood Ford among countless other smaller jobs.

"It's a lot of hard work," he admits in his matter-of-factly style. "But I enjoy it, that's why I'm still working."

"When I do a good job, I'm proud of myself."

The work, which is of a very physically demanding nature, is only part of the man.

Like many in this area, Corbisier enjoys hunting and fishing. In the winter, you'll find him ice fishing on North Pigeon, sometimes with friends, sometimes alone. He also cuts firewood all year long.

"I enjoy the bush," he says. "I'd rather be in the bush than in town most of the time."

Corbisier isn't shy about his desire to work in peace. During the 50 years in Toronto, Corbisier preferred to work at night.

"There was no one else to slow me down," he says. "No bosses, either!"

And there are no bosses still. He has no doubt outworked them all. And he works still with no imminent plans for retirement... "for real." With his trusty 1978 GM cargo van, Corbisier is always ready for more work.

The secret to his success, the seemingly eternal strength and energy of youth?

"I'm a great believer in cod liver oil," he says in all seriousness. "My mother was, too."

Being from the Maritimes, that is no surprise. Although, unfortunately, Corbisier laments that he has been unable for some time to find "the good stuff." Currently, his stock is from Norway, "but it's just not the same," he says with a sigh.

When it comes to water, the expectations are clear.

If your drinking water is meant for public use, you must know for certain that it's safe.

Owners and operators of certain drinking water systems must now comply with the requirements outlined in Ontario's drinking water systems regulation (Reg. 252/05, June 2005).

If the general public has access to your drinking water, whether it's via taps, washrooms, drinking water fountains or showers, this regulation affects you. Some establishments included are restaurants, service stations, churches, arenas and seasonal residences (such as campgrounds and communal cottage developments).

Clean, safe drinking water is vital to our health. Do your part to protect the quality of drinking water in your community.

Tap into drinking water systems Regulation 252/05 for complete information.

Awards event a celebration of top students

BRYN WEESE

Staff Reporter

The parade of students who walked across the stage at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School at Saturday's Honours and Awards ceremony are a testament to the school's dedication to excellence. Year after year, deserving students are honoured for their hard work to both academic studies and to school and community life.

Kathryn Verduyn, the director of education for the Trillium Lakelands District School Board, offered "sincere congratulations to the students on behalf of the board."

In total, $31,355 was handed out to hundreds of students and with the addition of seven new bursaries being awarded, the entire community, from private individuals to businesses to service clubs chipped in to make this year's honours and awards ceremony successful.

Wayne Cooper, chairman of the scholarship fund, thanked the many donors who made the day possible. Some donors give cash amounts for the annual awards; some have left bequests or given to the endowment fund, which now stands at about $350,000.

The presentation of Honours Certificates and Plaques, and of Perfect Attendance Awards for Years 1, 2 and 3 took place at an assembly held in the Athletic Complex, Friday, October 7, 2005.

United Way hams it up in Galway

And manages to raise $1,300 in a delicious way

For the third consecutive year, a good, old-fashioned, rural ham dinner in the Galway Community Hall enticed a remarkable number of dollars out of the pockets of Galway-Cavendish and Harvey people and into the coffers of the township-sponsored United Way campaign, with the funds in turn benefiting the Peterborough City and County United Way campaign.

At 80 and $1,300 respectively, both the number of attendees and the amount raised by the "Loonie Auction" conducted by Doug Pearson, were new records. Last year $1,200 was raised, itself a record.

Hosted as before by the township, with Chief Administrative Officer Pat Kemp and Lakefield resident Mary Smith as campaign co-directors, the popular "kick-off" evening again featured Kinmount-area residents Deputy-Reeve Madeline Pearson, Councillor-at-Large Don Lacombe and Leon Brisson as "chief cooks and bottle washers."

They were joined by Reeve Tom Flynn, the GCH council, retired Fairhaven Home executive Dawn Straka, who is heading the 2005 Peterborough County campaign, UW executive-director Len Lifchus and board member Bill Astell, and Galway hall board members George and Dorothy Heath. Flynn also accepted a certificate of appreciation for the township staff involvement with the United Way, with the Heaths presented with a certificate of thanks for the Galway hall board's involvement.

Kemp and Smith also co-chair the United Way County Development Committee, which was established several years ago to "communicate the activities and benefits of the United Way to the countryside."

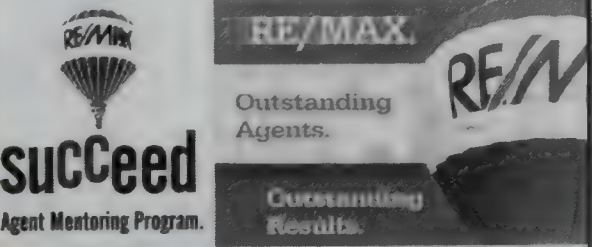

Beautiful cabbages and beautiful smiles were everywhere at the Galway Community Hall's old-fashioned ham dinner.

Clarence the cat has emerged from hiding

The après-Thanksgiving silence has returned a certain calm to the village

Thank you to everyone who supported the Kinmount Studio Tour, the many other events taking place in our areas and the weatherman who blessed us with a fall weekend complete with crisp temperatures and glorious colour.

With the departure of the last child and grandchild a sense of order has been returned here to the old farmhouse. Clarence the Cat has emerged from his secret hiding place, yellow lab King has recovered from all his extra exercise, the many small assorted trucks have been neatly placed back into their basket and the comfort drawn from daily regular retirement routines restored. How I envy those who delight in kitchens crowded by willing helpers, the spontaneity of stopping some less important task to share a grandchild's achievement on the laptop or to take costly apples out to the ponies with an eager small city dweller. Bruce is much better at this than I. After all, in the final analysis, what is really so great about order and routines? Maybe I'll do better at Christmas.

Celebrate the fall season this coming Saturday, October 15 at the Harvest Feast prepared by the United Church Women of the Kinmount United Church. The Octoberfest style menu will be served starting at 4 p.m. at the Kinmount Community Centre. The cost for adults is $12, children ten and under $5 and preschoolers free of charge. Be sure to save some room for the homemade pies.

This year Canadian Library Week and Ontario Library Week coincide with celebrations during the week of October 17 to 22. The theme this year is "Destination Imagination". To honour the event the Friends of the Kinmount Library will be making a special presentation to the library system with books chosen by former Kinmount librarians. This will take place at an Open House at the library on Saturday, October 22 during regular library hours 1 - 4 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Also, on Wednesday, November 2 at the library starting at 7 p.m., the Friends are sponsoring an evening program entitled "Getting the Most from a Digital Camera." This will be presented by Lori Roberts of Minden's Photo Solutions. This is a great opportunity for those wishing to learn more about their digital camera or considering buying one for a Christmas gift. There is no charge for the evening and everyone is welcome.

Now for the Scoring News with your usual reminder to keep busy and well. They go together.

October 4 contract bridge at Stanhope: Two Slams were bid and made by Dorothy Strype and Helen Rice and Bruce Armstrong partnered with our bridge correspondent Ross Fletcher. High score honours went to Harold Cox at 7210 followed by Ross Fletcher 6200, Ray Moore 5760 and Helen Rice 5740. Joan Davies won the lucky draw, Linda Cherry the Shiny Penny and Harold Cox took home the "S.F." Award for indeed he is the "S.F."

Silver Fox.

October 4 bid euchre at the Minden Legion: In top spot was Marcy Morgan at 282 then Kevin Maloney at 279 and our reporter Jean Scadden 267. Hidden score holders were Marcy Morgan, Pat Scadden, Thelma Francis and Margaret Fletcher while Isobel Cherwenka, Marg Viney and Georgina Parkes took the moonshots.

October 4 euchre at Gelert Community Centre: For the ladies Isabelle Saunders was high and Pearl Cowen low with Ted Wilkins leading the gents and Gene Newell low man. Don Hicks held the most lone hands and Don Curry won the draw.

October 5 duplicate bridge at Parklane, Haliburton: In North/South Dorothy and Tom Howat were first at 65% with Stella McMillan and Ross Davies in second spot at 55%. For East/West Freda Norman and Joyce Burch were tied at 54% with Mayme Douglas and Muriel McIntosh.

October 5 bid euchre at Stanhope: Moonshots rained down on Lottie Ruttan, George Bull, Peter Farr, Helen Henderson, Frank Campagnolo (2), David Lamb, Sharon Evans and Bill Milford. Trudy Kroes topped the pinks at 328 with June Branning 293 second and Sharon Evans 279 third. For the white cards David Lamb led at 331 then Garth Windsor 264 and third Frank Campagnolo 261.

October 5 Kinmount Seniors euchre at the Kinmount Legion: High lady Thelma Francis also won for most lone hands. Eileen Shepstone was low lady while for the gents Harold Harvie was high man and Roger Fournier low man with Harold also winning the draw.

October 6 euchre at the Minden Legion: In the lone hands column it was Helen Skelding and Jim Bradbury with Flo Roussel and Marcel Roussel recording the high scores. Elva Paisley and Jesse Barlow had the evening's lows while Elva Paisley, Maxine Cross, Maria Tschida and Flo Roussel won the other prizes.

October 7 bid euchre at Club 35: Leading the pinks at 308 was Willie Cox with Marion Farr second at 266 and Marj Coffey tied with Loretta Lamb for third at 258. Percy Butler was first for the white cards at 300 then Peter Farr 294 and David Lamb 289. Moonshots went to Marj and Dick Coffey along with Willie and Jack Cox. Best wishes are sent out to Tom Pearson for a speedy recovery from his many friends at Club 35.

October 7 euchre at Staanworth Court, Minden: Topping the charts was our reporter Doreen Francis with Peter O'Reilly taking the low score. Nick Boekestyn was double lucky winning both for lone hands and the draw.

St. Stephen's Church was decorated in a rich tapestry of autumn colours.

Historic Boshkung church was the setting for baptisms

Charlena Gaulin and her daughter Kaitlyn became the fourth and fifth generations of their family to be baptized at St. Stephen's Church. Officiating was Father Tim Sharpe. Also taking part was Charlena's husband, Allan. Check out the photo on the following page.

Last Saturday on October 8, St. Stephen's Heritage Church was opened to celebrate the baptisms of Charlena Gaulin and her two-month-old daughter Kaitlyn. Allan, Charlena's husband was there to share in the special day for his wife and child. The beautiful 104-year-old church was a perfect setting for the ceremony, specially decorated as it was for the autumn season.

Friends and family came from Montreal, Toronto, Barrie, Delhi and Haliburton County to witness the baptisms which represented the fourth and fifth generations to be baptized at St. Stephen's. Kaitlyn's great-great-grandmother, Eliness Stevens, was baptized at the same church in 1903. In later years her grandmother, Shirley Warder, and great-grandmother, Phyllis Ackerblade, were also baptized at St. Stephen's. Shirley and Phyllis were in attendance on Saturday.

Kaitlyn, in her beautiful white christening dress, not only looked like an angel but behaved as such during the wonderful service at which Father Tim Sharpe officiated.

Kaitlyn's aunts, Rebecca Murphy and Cassie Weyrich, and her great-aunt Jean surprised Kaitlyn's parents with a wonderful baby shower at Club 35 following the baptism service. Friends and family enjoyed the beautiful decorations, the wonderful sandwiches and snacks as well as the delightful cake which was designed by Judy Carpenter to resemble a little lamb.

St. Stephen's is maintained by The Friends of St. Stephen's Heritage Church, a group that maintains the church and grounds and always welcomes new members. Regular services are not held there but it is opened for special occasions. More information can be had from Judith Fisher at 489-1312.

Thanksgiving weekend is traditionally a day for many to close their cottages for the winter. However, nowadays many cottages are winterized and opened all year round so people are not as focused on doing maintenance all weekend. The challenge is to think of an interesting way to celebrate with family and friends. This year the Dietsch clan and the Johnsons of Halls Lake celebrated with their third annual International Beerfest.

Larry and Terry Magee (née Dietsch) along with Layne and Margaret Dietsch set up the festivities. Because it was cool on Saturday down by the lake, the venue was moved up to Layne and Margaret's Stone House right on Hwy. 35. The house has a huge covered wrap-around porch, perfect for the occasion. Patrons of Hall Lake Market probably wondered at the crowd across the street which spilled off the porch and onto the front lawn.

The event required that every couple choose a country. Each

Cracker Jacks were fine for dessert

had to bring six containers of beer (served as samples in shooter cups) as well as an hors d'oeuvre from that country — enough to feed 40 people. Yours truly quickly chose England, not being too creative when it comes to cuisine. Pigs in a blanket, cheddar cheese and pickled onions — a typical ploughman's lunch — were things I could handle. My kids, Bryce and Veronica, as always busy at work, chose Belgium and arrived with chocolate for everyone to accompany the Stella Artois beer they had been assigned. The cherry beer they brought as an extra went right along with the chocolate. My other kids Nadine and Scott chose America thinking the food choices would be simple, only to be stymied when trying to think of what could be considered a traditional American hors d'oeuvre. Luckily, their country was last on the list so the individual bags of Cracker Jacks they brought were appropriate for dessert.

Gouda cheese and pickles from Holland were featured as well as sausage served with sauerkraut. German beer was accompanied by plates of sausage and a mixture of cabbage and potatoes. Jamaican fare consisted of what else? Jamaican patties and a spicy crab dip served with corn chips. Jerk chicken from Trinidad and freshly baked scones and jam from Ireland also hit the spot. Buffalo meatballs were served as a Canadian treat. Italian fare featured the traditional bruschetta and turkey meatballs, accompanied by shooters of wine for a change of taste.

Voted the most popular, however, were the dishes from France and Mexico. Everyone wanted seconds of the melted brie topped with peach chutney served over slices of baguette. Delicieux! Many also coveted seconds of the empanadas from Mexico served with that country's Cerveza.

The most memorable photo of the day was taken of participants sporting green antler heads with Alexander Keith Beer labeled across the top. How can you have a beerfest without a bunch of spilly talkers? Family, friends, food and laughter. We have a lot to be thankful for.

The Stanhope Soccer League will be holding its annual "wrap up" meeting for the 2005 season on Tuesday, October 18 at 7 p.m. at the Stanhope Firefighters Community Hall on North Shore Road. All are welcome to attend, especially those interested in joining the executive committee for the 2006 season. Parents are encouraged to participate to keep the league going strong. For more information, contact Julie at 489-2702 or Melissa at 766-9968.

Following are a few upcoming Stanhope events to put on your calendars:

Barbara Kyle's Writing Workshops on October 22 about how to create unforgettable characters and how to create a blueprint for your novel.

The Haunted Garden Centre: Open between 5 and 8 p.m. on October 28, 29, 30 and 31.

Bring the children for a scary good time. All proceeds go to the Stanhope Fire Department.

A Writers' Christmas hosted by The Algonquin Highlands Writers, Circle on December 6 at The Pepper Mill Restaurant.

Tea party kicked off a busy month

Tongue-twisting lake sets the scene for treat-eating and visiting

Another month has gone by, it seems, in a blink of an eye. Our days have been well spent with various activities for us to enjoy.

We started September off by being invited to a Tea Party at Barb Sculley's. Barb is a volunteer here at Hyland Crest and has a lovely home on Lake Kashagawigamog (boy, that's a tongue twister!). Mary Goldsmith, Joan Kernohan, Annie Lewis, Betty Sawyer, and Doris Foster sat out on Barb's deck, gazing at the lake and eating scrumptious treats. We had a lovely afternoon and thank you very much for inviting us, Barb.

Happy Hour is always so much fun with Earl Cooper, Les Schell, Kathleen Owens, Lloyd Madill, and some of the gang from Northern Jam here to entertain. We even enjoyed some homemade zucchini bread brought in by Sharon Sisson that was really delicious; thank you Sharon.

Nerina Clark, Dolly Aishford's daughter, has been bringing flower arrangements in for us that are absolutely gorgeous. Thank you Nerina for taking the time to do this.

Last week Olive, Weldon, and friends were here to sing some hymns and play the piano. We were honoured to help Olive celebrate her 85th birthday with a cake and we all sang Happy Birthday. We so enjoy this group and look forward to next month when they come again.

Joy Bain is here faithfully every week to do our Prayer Friends program downstairs, and we now have Sheila Corp here to run our Prayer Friends program upstairs.

SENIOR LEAGUE

News from Hyland Crest

The love that is shown by these two ladies is tremendous and they are both doing a wonderful job. Wes Sisson, Wanda Davis, Gladys Wruth, Doris Clark, Ruth Fiddler, Mary McCallum, Dorothea Lynch, and Muriel Welch are among some of the residents who enjoy the Bible stories and hymns.

Mickey Bonham is also one of our devoted volunteers who is with us each week to have a sing-a-long. We so enjoy listening and tapping our toes to our old favourite tunes.

Nancy Ballantyne comes to visit with a little one on one which our residents really enjoy. Her friendly face really makes our day! Thank you Nancy for the time you spend here.

We enjoyed a bus trip this month to the Minden Legion for lunch. Thanks to a very generous donation from the Rotary Club some of our residents were able to get to the there via Laidlaw's bus and enjoyed a delicious meal. Gladys Sedgwick, Muriel Welch, Doris Kennett, Lilian Harrison, Cecil Smith, Mildred Hoyle, and Betty Sawyer all made the trip and had a wonderful time. Many thanks to Sue Sisson, Mary Hamilton, and Barb Sculley for all your help to make this a great day.

Our fundraising bake sale was a great success! Residents' Council raised a grand total of $504! A huge thank you to all who kindly donated baked goods and to those who came and supported this event. Another fundraiser we participated in this month was the Alzheimer Coffee Break. A special thank you to Ginger Kulus who donated a delicious blueberry cake and to others who donated baked goods. This is a very worthwhile cause and we appreciate all those who gave a donation.

Joan Kernohan, Doris Foster, Mary Goldsmith, Blanche Wright, and Cecil Smith got together for Crafts and made a beautiful fall collage. We cut out pumpkins, leaves, flowers, and anything that had to do with autumn. They're hanging in the Activity Rooms so stop and take a look next time you're here.

Tea Parties are always so enjoyable and we've had the Kinmount Ladies here for most of our Thursdays this month. Kinmount UCW, Kinmount Seniors, and Kinmount Catholic Ladies were here and brought mouth-watering goodies each time. Thank you to all!

Haley's group brought our August Birthday cake in and Haley made sunshine cakes that were almost too pretty to eat! But eat them we did. They were delicious; thank you so much, Haley.

The Minden Red Hatters ended up our month of tea parties and we always love having them come in their bright red hats and purple outfits. They also brought their very talented canine with them to entertain. Thank you everyone!

Dorothea Lynch had a visitor here the other day from Perry Sound. Dorothea had been her dance teacher for many years in Toronto and we all had fun listening to her tell of how fantastic Dorothea was as a teacher.

We were all saddened by the loss of Marjorie Hunter, and Iris Brentnall. Also, for the loss of Dottie Muirhead. Dottie was a volunteer here at Hyland Crest for almost 20 years, running our craft program, helping out with entertainment programs, special events and wherever else she was needed. She was a caring soul and will be missed by residents and staff. Our thoughts and prayers go out to each of their families and friends.

We also are going to miss Annie Lewis who has moved to Highland Wood. We miss you, Annie!

We would like to welcome Marvel Eager to our home and hope you enjoy it here with us. Well, that's all for now folks and we'll talk again next month! Take care and God Bless.

Lyn Hancock hosts September meeting of Minden Women's Institute

by RITA BAIRD
Special to the Times

Another summer recess over, our hostess, Lynn Hancock warmly welcomed us to her home for the September meeting of the Minden Women's Institute amidst happy reunions, Pam Rolfe, President, opened proceedings with the W.I. Ode & Creed and greeted members and guests. Mary read the June minutes which were approved and Hanna's Treasurer's report given.

Once again the Roll Call proved most informative and members researched the topic, "Name a Canadian City or Town and its most important industry." Who knew the City of Windsor is the most, southerly city in Canada and is known as the City of Roses - not I.

Loma, card convenor, reported having sent out 18 cards during July and August. Del then gave her update on current events which she documents so well and is then included in Lynn's Tweedemuir history books.

As convenor for business this month I introduced several small businesses in our area, namely,

- Bill Young, Home Delivery
- Angie Horner of Botanica, Ecologist and Gardener
- Eileen Eng. Dr. of Naturopathy
- Simplysales, Solar Store

All proved of interest to our ladies.

Pam and Mary will attend the women's Institute Central Ontario Convention at the Radisson Hotel, Oct. 14. We look forward to their report at our next meeting at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery Common Room on October 19, at 1:30 p.m.

Prior to meeting adjournment Pam handed out a word quiz naming provinces and capitals. It was a lot of fun and in-keeping with the theme and Roll Call of our September business.

We are happy to welcome new member, Charlotte Watts. Won't you join us as a guest at our Oct. 10th meeting. Tel. 754-3445 for a friendly 'Hello'.

Thank you to hostess Lynn and Dawn for the lovely tea.

ADVERTISING SALES REPRESENTATIVE

Osprey Media is one of Canada's leading publishers of daily and weekly newspapers, magazines and specialty publications with 21 daily newspapers, 28 weekly newspapers and 30 magazines and specialty print publications in 46 markets across Ontario.

Osprey Media Group's local newspapers are entrenched in their communities and are well-recognized brand leaders.

Newspapers such as The Kingston Whig-Standard, The St.

Catharines Standard, The

Peterborough Examiner, The

Barrie Examiner, The Orillia

Packet & Times, The Enterprise Bulletin, The Midland Free Press

and many others have been serving their communities for more than a hundred years.

The Haliburton County Echo and The Times, Minden require an enthusiastic, positive, bright and hard working person to join our sales team.

The successful candidate will play a key role in growing the newspapers' advertising revenues and client base.

Experience in advertising sales, especially in a print media environment, is a definite asset, however we will provide ongoing training to someone who brings the right qualities of a positive personality, lots of energy, excellent written and verbal communication skills, and a desire to succeed in a fast-paced, deadline-driven environment.

Key responsibilities:

- Represent the newspapers and associated special publications to a wide range of local business clients.
- Develop and implement strategies to help customers grow their businesses.
- Achieve account sales revenue targets
- Make cold calls to market the newspapers' services to local and regional businesses.

Qualifications:

- Proven customer service skills
- Excellent time management skills
- A creative, positive approach to problem solving
- A people person and team player
- A reliable vehicle

Send resume and covering letter to:

BRENTNALL, IRIS EVELYN – With great sorrow the family of Iris Brentnall announces her passing at Hyland Crest Nursing Home, Minden, on Monday, September 26, 2005 at the age of 83 years. She was the beloved wife of William McInnes (Bill) Brentnall who predeceased her in 1986. Dear mother of Carol Brentnall and her husband Larry Pratt of Minden and Alan and his wife Janie of Oshawa. Loving Gram of Steven, Robert (Sharon), Nicole (Rob) Tracy (Shane), and Lisa (Mark). Dearest Great-Gram to Christopher, Erika, Sarah, Alysha, Diana, Robert Jr., Connor, Eric, Nicola and Emma. Predeceased by her sister Elizabeth and her two brothers John and David. Iris was a resident of Scarborough for many years, moving to Oshawa in 1990. She had been a resident of Thorntonview Long Term Care in Oshawa for three years and just recently moved to Minden. A service was held in Oshawa on October 1, 2005. The family is very grateful for the excellent care given to her by the staff at Hyland Crest and for the support they received during this difficult time.

BARNES, WALTER HARLOW

– It is with sadness that we announce the passing of Walter Barnes, who died in his home at Mountain Lake, Minden, Ontario, on Sunday, October 9, 2005. Born in Toronto, August 7, 1935, Walter began his teaching career at Wilcox Lake, detoured to the University of Toronto to earn his Mus.Bac., then continued as a Music Teacher for the Toronto Board of Education from which he retired in 1991. While at U of T, Walter led the Hart House Glee Club and the University of Toronto Chorus. While teaching, Walter was the organist and choirmaster at St. Bart's Anglican Church, Toronto for many years, training them at church, taking them on tours, including Expo 67. After retirement he moved to his home on Mountain Lake, became the organist at St. Paul's, Minden, and founded the Brass Quintet of Minden. Through the years he has arranged music for choirs, written books on the playing of Band instruments, in concert with the Canadian Brass, and taught thousands of students the wonders of music. He was a faithful Christian and Anglican, believing that through music we can share in the music of heaven. He leaves one son, Terry Kostiuk (married to Maureen), his brother the Rev'd Ron Barnes and wife Beverley and their children Cathie, Heather, Bonnie, and Charles; and many friends including Fr. Donald Belway and Archbishop David Somerville, and last, but not least, his faithful canine companion, Seamus. Requiem at 11 a.m. in St. Paul's Church, Minden, October 14th. In lieu of flowers, donations can be sent to the WHB Fund for Music Endowment. "May the music of heaven surround him, and Light perpetual shine upon him, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

MARSALES, ELINOR

– Slipped away Sunday, October 9 at General Hospital in Hamilton, two and a half weeks after suffering a serious stroke. Elinor made Halls Lake her summer home for eighty of the eighty-six years of her life. Predeceased by husband Barney Marsales, sister Pamela Wright, and sister-in-law Ann McLaughlin, she will be sadly missed by brother Frank McLaughlin of Gravenhurst; son, Peter Marsales of Dundas, daughter, Pamela Marsales of Haliburton and her family of Hugh Taylor and children Charles and Cecily. Also, nephew, Timothy Wright and Sue Wright of Halls Lake and sons, Greg and Kevin, and their families; niece, Mary (McLaughlin) and Paul Cook of Gravenhurst with family Laura, Michael and Kathleen; niece, Susan (McLaughlin) and Anderson Charters of Orillia with family of Matthew, Mary Katherine, Timothy, and Elizabeth; nephew Michael McLaughlin of Gravenhurst and nephews Philip Wright and David Wright and their families in British Columbia. Funeral arrangements will be through J. B. Marlatt of Dundas, Ontario with interment at Christ Church Anglican of Bullock's Corners, on Hwy. 8, West of Dundas, which provided a network of support to Elinor she warmly reciprocated over the years. Visitation Thursday, Oct. 13, 7-9, Saturday, Oct. 15, 12:30. Funeral Oct. 15, 2 p.m.
